Step-3: Idea Prioritization

Prioritize

Your team should all be on the same page about what's important moving forward. Make your ideas as clear and to the point as possible so everyone understands what you're trying to achieve.

Tip

To be on the same page, make sure everyone understands what you're trying to achieve. This can be done by having a meeting or by using a tool like Trello or Asana to track your progress.

Importance

Possibility

place high-margin candy and toys at child-eye level in checkout lanes

pair related items (like chips and dips) together on aisle end-caps

Place high-volume items like milk or bread at the very back of the store to force shoppers to walk past more products

After you collaborate

You can expect the results of all the things you put in there with the help of your team. But you might find that things don't always go as planned.

Check and revise

Make sure you're on the same page as your team. If you're not, it's time to check in. This can be done by having a meeting or by using a tool like Trello or Asana to track your progress.

Repeat the cycle

Once you've checked in, it's time to repeat the cycle. This can be done by having a meeting or by using a tool like Trello or Asana to track your progress.

Keep moving forward

Strategy board

A board that helps you track your progress and stay on track. It can be used to track your progress on a project, a campaign, or a business goal.

Customer journey map

A map that shows the customer's journey from start to finish. It can be used to identify pain points and opportunities for improvement.

Brand identity

The visual elements of a brand, such as its logo, colors, and typography. It helps to create a consistent and recognizable brand image.

Brand voice

The way a brand communicates with its audience. It can be defined by its tone, style, and personality.
